Pack Peddlers' Stories.

AN ADVENTURE IN THE HOUSE OF BENDER, THE NOTED KANSAS MURDERER.

'I have been a pack peddler for more than twenty years,' said the old man, as he whiffed away at his pipe to get it alight, 'and you may suppose I have met with some stirring adventures. I have traveled a great deal in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota, and for weeks and months I have been on the alert, not only to preserve the contents of my pack, but to defend my life. My line of trade has been Yankee notions, with jewelry added. I have had with me at one time as much as $2,000 worth of gold and silver watches, ear rings, finger rings, &c. I have sat on a log beside a highway in Kansas and sold $400 worth of stock to three or four men, and I have disposed of $50 worth of ladies' jewelry at a pioneer cabin which had neither floors nor partitions.

'On two different occasions I ate dinner at the cabin of old Bender, the Kansas fiend. On the first occasion the old man was away, and I saw only two women about the place. Six months later, when I called again, it was about 11 o'clock in the forenoon. Then I saw old Bender for the first time. I have heard him described as a pleasant faced old man who no one would suspect, but I tell you the very first look at him put me on my guard. For the first time in a year I felt that my life was in danger. The same two slatternly women were about the house, and there was a young man whom I took to be old Bender's son. This young man disappeared soon after I arrived, but whether he hid in the house or rode off across the prairie I never knew. Bender's women purchased about $2 worth of notions, and the old man dickered with me for over an hour over a gold watch. It seems that he had but a small stock of cash, but he offered me personal property in exchange. He had three or four silver watches, all of which had been carried, two or three revolvers, two bosom pins, made of lumps of pure gold, and three or four pairs of valuable cuff buttons. We had nearly effected an exchange when he suddenly decided to leave the matter open until after dinner.

'Months afterward, when the discoveries of his crimes came out, I thought the matter over, and could remember just how nicely he played me. Without seeming to interrogate me for information, he asked how long a trip I had made, what success I had met with, who I was, where I lived, and what I knew of that locality. The old murderer was figuring up the chances of my being missed in case he put an end to me, and he had a curiosity to know beforehand what the harvest would be. While I told you that I did not like his looks, and that I had a creepy feeling in his presence, I had no idea of an attempt to murder by daylight and in the manner he was planning for. I had a trusty revolver and I had the courage to defend myself. Had I met him out on the prairie, or had we been jogging together along some lonely highway, I should have been prepared to pull my pistol at his first movement.

'Dinner was announced soon after 12 o'clock. I took my pack with me into the dining room, where I found the table set for one. There were three rooms in the house. The front room was a general sitting room and office combined. Bender kept a sort of tavern, you know, and travellers had this front room. The next room back was the dining room and family room combined. There was a bedroom leading off. On the walls of this family room were a few old-fashioned prints in old-fashioned frames, a shelf on which stood a clock, and a few scant evidences of women's presence. The back room was the kitchen.

'I had my eyes wide open when I entered the dining room, and the very first thing I noticed was that the table was set lengthwise of the room, and that my chair and plate had been so placed that my back would be toward the kitchen door, which was not over five or six feet away. Had it been at the other end my back would have been toward the office door. The first move I made was to turn the chair around to the side and sit down. I now faced the bedroom door, and had the other doors to my right and left, while there was no window behind me. The younger woman was in the room, and she looked at me in a queer, strange way as I upset the arrangements she had perfected. Bender did not look into the room for two or three minutes, and then retired without speaking. A minute later he passed around the house and entered the kitchen by the back door. While I could not see him, I heard him and the woman whispering together, and I caught the words as spoken by her :

' "I tell you he did it himself !" '

'I could not catch a word from him and directly he went out and she came in with the rest of the eatables. Her face was flushed and her manner very nervous. She put on a plate of bread and a platter of meat, and then went out for the coffee. As she set the cup and saucer on the board she partly upset the cup and spilled half the contents on the table.

' "Excuse me—I'm sorry," ' she said, as I shoved back to keep the hot liquid from dripping on my legs.

' "Never mind—no harm done," ' I replied.

' "It was so careless of me. You had better change your seat to the end while I sop it up." '

' "Oh, don't mind. I'm not hungry and shall eat but a few mouthfuls any way. I forgot to tell you that I preferred water to coffee." '

' "But—you—you——" '

' "I'm all right." '

'She gave me one of the queerest looks I ever got, first flushing up and then turning pale. Spilling that coffee was a put up job to get my back to the kitchen door. I suspected it then ; a few months later I had plenty of horrible proofs. Before the meal was finished old Bender looked in from the kitchen door and drew back, and when I shoved away and entered the office he was not there and did not show up for five minutes. When I went to dinner a double-barrelled shotgun stood in a corner of the office. When I came out it was gone. The old man came in after a while, and it was easy to see that he had to force himself to converse. I paid him for the meal and was ready to go. It was a lonely road I had to travel, with no other house for miles, and it suddenly struck me that the younger man had gone on to lie in ambush and shoot me in case I escaped assassination at the house. For a minute or two I quite lost my sand, and you can judge what a relief it was to see a team drive up with three men in the vehicle and room for one more. They stopped to water the horse and chat a few moments, and readily gave me a lift on my way. I did not impart my suspicions to them, and it was not until the horrible stories came out that I felt sure in my own mind what a close call I had had.

'Do I know what became of old Bender and his family ? You remember that they fled the country, or that the papers so reported, and for months we used to hear from one locality and another of the fugitives being seen or captured. I have reasons to believe they never got out of the State, nor yet a hundred miles from that lone tavern on the prairie, with its horrible cellar underneath and its gravevard in the rear. Bands of men were riding in this or that direction, bent on vengeance, and one of these overhauled the party. I have been told this on the best authority. As Bender had shown no mercy toward the unsuspecting travelers who were shot in the back from that kitchen door as they ate at his table, none was shown to him or his. They were wiped out and planted where their bodies will never be turned up to the light of day.'

'I have also been a pack peddler for years,' said the man who had a decided limp in his gait, and who seemed to be about 45 years old, 'and I have had my fair share of adventures with the rest of the fraternity. For years I have traveled in Tennessee, the Carolinas and Georgia, and my line of goods has been cutlery. I have sometimes carried pins, needles, and thread, but more as an accommodation than from any hope of profit. My line inclues razors, shears, scissors, pocket knives, table knives, and forks. Sometimes I add a few sheath knives, which are bought by lawless characters, and sometimes I omit them, according to the route I have laid out.

'On two or three occasions my life has been put in peril by the cupidity of others, but the closest shave I ever had was in the mountains of Tennessee, about fifty miles from Knoxville. I had sold my stock pretty well down, and had about $300 with me, when, one afternoon an hour before sunset, the approach of a terrific thunderstorm drove me to seek the shelter of a roadside cabin. It was a lonely place, on a lonely mountain road, and the time was in 1867. While the war had long been over, as of course you know, there was a good deal of bitterness among the mountaineers of Tennessee, and there were a great many men who had not yet settled down to anything like work. As I was not in the war on either side, and am English born, I got along very well with the fire-eaters ; but the fact was every day before me that there were plenty of lawless characters, both Union and Rebel, who wouldn't hesitate to put me out of the way for what my pack contained, no matter what principle I upheld. But for the coming storm I should have continued on for a couple of hours. I did not like the looks of the place. It was a story and a half log house, situated several rods off the road, and there was something in the house and its surroundings which made me hesitate to ask for hospitality. However, a July thunderstorm was creeping up, covering the whole west with darkness, and the thunder was rolling and reverberating from hill to hill as I knocked on the casing of the open door. The voice of a woman bade me enter. She was a person at least forty years old, large and muscular, and her countenance was anything but prepossessing. It wore a sullen, sulky expression, and the gray eyes which sized me up had no gleam of womanly kindness in them. I explained that I was a traveler who craved shelter from the storm, and she sullenly replied :

' "You are welcome to sit down." '

'Five minutes later the rain was falling in torrents, and it grew so dark that the woman had to light a candle. The cabin had but one room below. In this was a bed, bureau and other furniture, and the cooking was done in a fireplace. At one end of the fireplace a rough ladder led to the loft above. The interior of the house was neither inviting nor repelling, but I certainly did not like the woman. It was all of twenty minutes after I sat down before she spoke another word, and then it was to ask what my pack contained. I opened it in explanation, and told her I was on my way to Knoxville to replenish my stock from goods ordered shipped to that point. I presented her with a common pair of shears, and there was a sudden change in her demeanor. She became smiling and talkative, and, as the storm showed no sign of abating she began to prepare supper, and observed that I must not think of continuing my journey before morning. Where I asked one question she asked five. She wanted to know where I was from, how much a stock of goods cost, whom I knew at Knoxville, and a great many other things. In return she told me that she was a widow, had a son twenty years old, who had gone to mill, and that they had a hard time to make a living.

While the change in her demeanor was agreeable in one sense, I could not get rid of the idea that the change was forced. While her lips uttered pleasant words her eyes gave them the lie. We had a fair supper, during which she bore the burden of conversation, and it was then seen that I must remain through the night. While the thunder had passed away, the rain fell in a steady pour, and the night was as black as tar. She said the storm would delay her son, but that he was certain to be home before midnight. She cleared away the table, sat down with some sewing, and asked me so many things about the outside world that I knew she had some time lived in better circumstances and had been fairly well educated. She gradually led the conversation back to my vocation, and carelessly remarked as she bent over her sewing :

' "One in your business should go well armed." '

' "Perhaps some of them do," ' I replied, 'though I have never seen occasion for weapons of any sort.'

' "If you—you wanted to part with your revolver perhaps my son would buy it. He is very anxious to secure such a weapon.'

'She did not dare to look me in the face, and her hands shook as she waited for me to reply.

' "My revolver—ha ! ha ! I'm afraid no one would accept the walking stick in the corner over there for a shooting iron." '

' "But you have a knife," ' she persisted, making a great effort to raise her eyes.

' "Yes, this," ' I answered, as I exhibited a pocket knife.

'That ended the conversation in that direction. From that moment the woman seemed very busy with her thoughts, and conversation lagged. On two or three occasions when I addressed her she started up in a nervous way, and asked me to repeat the interrogation. At ten o'clock I signified my desire to retire for the night. She took a candle and ascended to the loft, and I heard her pulling the bedstead about and tramping around. The floor was of undressed and unmatched boards, and the light of her candle could be plainly made out. When she came down she handed me the candle, and hoped I would sleep soundly. As was my invariable custom, I took my pack along with me, and climbed the ladder to find myself in a long, low room, lighted by a window at either end. The bed was at the further end, and the lower sash of the window was up its full height. From the window to the bed was a distance of about four feet. Notwithstanding the rain, the chamber was close and sultry, and for this reason the woman had raised the window, and for this reason I left it up. I placed my pack on the foot of the bed, blew out the light, and sat down to think. The widow acted in a suspicious manner, and yet there was nothing, when I came to think it all over, which really condemned her. I won't admit that I was a bit alarmed, but I found myself trembling at some unseen and undefined danger. It was a curious position to be placed in—to feel no fear, and yet be shaking as if some terror was upon you. I looked out of the window, but the night was so black that I made out nothing. I lighted a match and looked under the bed, which had a valance around it, but there was not even a box or basket hidden away.

'I think I sat by the window a full hour before deciding to go to bed, and then I simply pulled off my coat and boots and lay down on the outside, fully determined to keep awake for a couple of hours at least. I had a trusty revolver with me, and I felt certain in my own mind that anyone who attacked me in an open manner would find me a tough customer. There was no movement whatever from below. The clock struck eleven soon after I got into bed. I was wide awake when it struck twelve. I never felt less inclined to sleep, but I had certainly dozed off when a noise at the open window aroused me. I listened until sure that some one or something was there, and then I swung my legs off the bed to face around. As my feet touched the floor a flash of fire and a loud report, and by the momentary light I saw the head and shoulders of a man outside of the window. I had my revolver in my hand and the flash of his weapon had scarcely passed away when I gave him a bullet. I heard a fall outside, and as I sprang to the window I felt the ends of a ladder which had been raised. It was only then that I knew his bullet had hit me in the calf of the leg, though the excitement kept the pain almost subdued. I gave the ladder a heave and heard it go crashing down and then drew away from the window for fear of being fired on. Just then the clock struck one.

'There had been an attempt to murder me. Was the would be murderer the widow's son ? If not, the firing must have aroused her, and she should have called out. If so, had I killed him ? Would it be safe for me to go down stairs ? Wouldn't the mother secure the weapon and fire upon me as I descended the ladder ? There was no let up to the rain, nor did the darkness break away. I decided to remain where I was until daylight, providing I was left undisturbed. From that time until day broke I heard no sound to alarm me. I sat in a chair, revolver in hand, and the pain from my wound making me cringe; and if ever mortal man was glad to see the darkness fade away it was the person before you. The rain ceased about half past two, but I made no attempt to get to the window and look out until daylight was strong enough to enable me to see everything plainly. The ladder way lying on the ground, but nothing was to be seen of my midnight visitor. I took up my pack and limped to the open trap door in the floor, but no one was stirring. With a good deal of an effort I descended to the ground floor, half expecting to be attacked, but the house was deserted and the back door open. I washed and dressed my wound as well as I could, helped myself to something to eat, and hobbled off down the road until I reached a cabin, where a mule and cart could be hired.

'What did I do about the cold-blooded attempt to murder me ? Nothing at all. If I had made complaint I should have been detained for weeks or months as a witness, and I could not have sworn to the identity of the man at the window, nor to any circumstances that would have convicted the woman. I gave out that it was an accident, and though it was not a serious wound, it gave me this limp for life.

Old Gent—And how is your father John ?

John—He is dead, sir.

Old Gent—Dead ! Dear me ! What a pity ! And how is your mother ?

John—She is dead, too.

Old Gent—Indeed ! Dear me ! What a pity, what a pity. But how is your wife, John ?

John—She died last week, sir.

Old Gent—Why goodness me—what a pity ! And your mother in-law, how is she ?

John—She is hearty, sir.

Young Man (to dealer in sporting goods)—Have you base ball suits ?

Dealer—Oh, yes, sir. I can furnish you with anything you like in that line.

Young Man—Well, you can get me up a suit made of chilled steel with little sharp-pointed spikes sticking out all over it.

Dealer—But, my dear sir, you could not play ball in such a suit as that.

Young man—Oh, I'm not a player ; I'm an umpire.

The Astrologers Dupe.

A little old woman, gray-haired and trembling, sat a little while ago in the back office of a Wall-street stock broker. Her gaze was fixed on a wide blackboard, where chalk figures showed the drift of stock market quotations ; there was no lustre in her eye ; her whole aspect was that of one dumbfounded, broken-hearted. She had a sad story to tell were there only spirit enough left to her for a recital. A year ago she came to this same brokerage office. Her purse was fat with bank bills and she gave an order for the purchase of 500 shares of a stock which had been active a long time. The broker advised her against the purchase, and told her plainly that he had what he believed excellent reasons for expecting a heavy decline in the particular stock she had selected to buy. But she persisted in her determination, declaring that she had information which could not be wrong that the stock was bound to go up a good deal very soon. She had her way, despite the counsels that plainly predicted the loss of her money. She left $5,000 in cash as a 10 per cent. margin to protect her interest and went her way with a calm confidence shown on her countenance. 'I shall make a good deal of money,' she said as she left, 'for the information I have comes from the very highest authority.' The stock perversely declined forthwith, and each day saw some traction clipped off of the preceding day's quotation. Within a month the original $5,000 margin had dwindled down to $1,000, and the broker was obliged to call for another deposit from his customer to protect her interest. She came down town with the same self-satisfied smile, and with the same expressions of confidence produced her rounded purse again. Four thousand dollars she left in the broker's hands this time. 'The advance I am told, has been unavoidably delayed a little while,' she said with a tone full of assurance and faith, 'but it is bound to come soon now, and I feel as sure that my money is safe as if I had it all in band awaiting my orders.' This was in response to further grave predictions from the broker, who, by much argument tried to convince her that she was being misled. Another short period elapsed ; and another enforced call was made upon the sunny faced old lady. Just a bare suspicion of disquiet was beginning to show itself, but there was no backdown in her action. Out came more money. And so a little latter did more still follow. Then not long ago she came yet again ; now she brought her bank book. She showed to the broker that a year ago it credited her with deposits of $18,000, of which but $2,500 remained ; and that $2,500—every penny of it, every penny she possessed in the world—she handed over. She was not yet utterly downcast. 'But yesterday,' she averred, 'I had my information repeated again and the rise which I've waited for so long is to come now right away.' Down went the market, lower and lower dropped the price of the expectant woman's 500 shares of stock, till that day a little while ago when for the last she came into Wall-street again, dropped into an armchair before the quotation board and gazed long and listlessly, as one in a deep dream, confronting the white figures that glared out at her there like the eyes of so many demons. All of her $18,000 was gone ; she had only poverty left. But she was brave still, and when her broker approached her she rose with the grace of a woman young and queenly and thanked him for all his courtesies and the good advice he had wasted on her.

'Now, Madam, will you do me the great favor of telling me from what source you received the false information on which you relied so implicitly and risked so much money ?' This was the broker's question.

'Upon an astrologer.' This was her amazing answer, and she named a man whose 'card' is flaunted publicly in the metropolis. There was a stupefied broker, a broker who got mad. He didn't say 'Fool !' but he looked it. The old lady then talked freely. It was no new thing, she said, for her to seek the advice of this 'astrologer,' her husband had done the same before and a score of her friends, she said, had implicit confidence in the revelations of the seer.

'I'll give you $1,000,' said the broker hotly, 'if you'll promise me one thing.' The old lady's lightening countenance showed that he need have no doubt of the promise. 'Never come into Wall street again and have no more to do with this blanked scoundrel whose lies have cost you so dearly.'

The promise was gladly exchanged for the money, and the old lady went her way. But this was not the only sequel to this speculation. Three or four days ago a dapper little fellow with a face weazened around a pair of twinkling adder eyes thrust himself into this same brokerage office. He sought the manager and said he wanted to buy some stock on a margin. He had brought a one-thousand-dollar note along to put up as the necessary deposit. He was just ready to hand over his money when of a sudden he looked into the broker's face and ejaculated, 'You have got a bright eye ; may I draw this bank note across them just for a second ?' The broker was astonished, but to humor a customer, whom he supposed to be only in a jovial mood, he consented, and the bill blindfolded him momentarily. The customer closed his own eyes, withdrew the bill, and ejaculated as if to himself alone, 'Correct ; perfectly correct !' He deposited his money, and was about to leave when suddenly the broker, urged by a strange suspicion, called him and said : "Will you tell me why you went through that performance of putting that bill over my eyes ?' 'Certainly, certainly !' ejaculated the sallow fellow. 'Certainly ; I was testing the information I had. I am an astrologer, and—'

'Are you the man that sent Mrs. X here to buy stock ?'

'Yes, oh yes !' and the adder-eyed customer rubbed his hands ecstatically. 'Yes, oh yes ! I told her to come here.'

'You swindled her, you scoundrel.'

The broker's voice wasn't sweet to listen to, and the astrologer looked more than a little scared.

'Why, I believe in the powers myself,' he whined, 'or, of course, I wouldn't be putting up my own money.' It was only because there is a Police Court in this town that the fellow was not summarily kicked into the street. As it was the broker contented himself with saying : 'Your account will be closed in this office to-night. If there is anything due you you can have it at 3 o'clock. Get out of here now, quick.' At 3 o'clock when the gentleman called he found that something had run afoul of the market during the day and his 200 shares of stock had fallen enough in a couple of hours to wipe out every cent of his $1,000 margin. And I betray only a little bit of confidence in saying that the fellow wouldn't have been far wrong if he had suspected that his own broker was responsible himself for the sudden decline, having hammered the market and pacified his conscience somewhat in remembrance of the duped old lady whose fortune had gone at the idle dictation of the arrant humbug who now to some extent was doing penance for her sorrow.

The Female Clerk.

There are 4,000 women in the Government department at Washington, says a local correspondent, and many of the best-looking and most intelligent ladies of the capital are so employed. They come, as a rule, from good families. Many of them are the widows of noted Generals, the daughters of ex-Governors and ex-Congressmen, and now and then you will find the relative of a President or a Cabinet Minister. Many of them have travelled widely, and the great majority are educated and refined ladies. They do all kinds of work, and receive salaries ranging from $720 to $1,800 a year. As money counters they are much more expert than men, and the rapidity with which they can count thousands upon thousands of dollars without making a mistake makes your brain whirl as you watch them. These money counters get about $75 a month, and they count millions of dollars every month. At one side of each one on the table lie great piles of greenbacks, done into packages as they come from the press. I am speaking now of the Redemption Bureau of the Treasury. These bills are old and dirty. The strip of paper around each package of 100 bills states where they came from, and who counted them in the country. The young lady takes this off, and moistening her fingers with a wet sponge in front of her, she counts the bills like lightning, and, if the package is not right, she reports so to the chief, and the banks from which the bills come must stand the loss. The girls seldom make a mistake, and if they do so or pass a counterfeit without noting it, they must make the mistake good, and the amount is taken out of their salary. They can tell however, a bad bill simply by feeling it, and a bank cashier will make a hundred mistakes where they make one.

Not long ago one of these young lady counters was engaged upon a lot of $100 notes. She had been dropping the scraps on the floor beside her in a pile after verifying the count. While she was counting a package she would lay this scrap, marked with the name of the bank which sent it, on the table beside her. At last she came to a package that contained only ninety-nine notes, and on looking for the scrap was terrified to find that it had fallen among the others. She was sure she knew the name of the bank, but she could not prove it. The bank was notified and refused to acknowledge the mistake, and the poor girl was forced to pay the $100.

We are authorized to announce WM. B. MINGLE, of Centre Hall, as a candidate for prothonotary, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention.

DEMOCRATS, let us marshal our forces for the coming political contest!

A DEFALCATION amounting to $150,000 was discovered in a western pension agency.

HUGH S. THOMPSON, Governor of South Carolina, has been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, vice W. E. Smith, who has tendered his resignation, to take effect July 1st.

MR. RANDALL introduced his bill to reduce and equalize duty on imports, to reduce internal revenue taxes and to modify the laws in relation to the collection of the revenue on Monday.

LET every citizen spend the glorious Fourth in a fitting manner. It is the 109th anniversary of the declaration of the Union's independence and the greatest national holiday. Of all other days it is the day on which we should gratefully think of the blessings sweet liberty affords us and on that day every patriotic heart should be filled with pride and love for this, the greatest nation in the world.

HON. DAVID DAVIS, ex-Vice President, died at his home in Bloomington, Illinois, on Saturday, June 26th. His physicians say that the immediate cause of his death was a malignant carbuncle which made its appearance last April. Judge Davis' death created profound sorrow in Bloomington. He held the position of United States Senator from Illinois to which he was elected in 1877.

By the succession of Vice-President Arthur to the vacancy created by President Garfield's death Mr. Davis became acting Vice-President. Since the expiration of his senatorial term he led a retired life.

YESTERDAY was the Republican red-letter day in Harrisburg, and the attendance of the Republican state convention which convened there in the morning was large and loud. We go to press too early to publish any of the proceedings but, as stated before, the head of the state ticket was all fixed this good while by the bosses and it is—Gen. James A. Beaver, for Governor. Col. Stewart, of Montgomery, is most likely to be nominated for Secretary of Internal Affairs. Between Montooth, of Pittsburg, and ex-Senator Davies, of Bradford county, for the Lieut. Governorship, the latter seems to have the inside track.

A SAD LESSON on Strikes is given in the following article from the Philadelphia Times:

Thirteen months ago the nailers employed in Pittsburg, Wheeling and adjacent places struck for increased wages. The employers declared themselves unable to pay the increase demanded and closed their mills.

There were 3,500 either engaged in the strike or dependent upon the strikers for employment, and most of them have now been idle for more than a year. The Association has paid out to starving families the sum of $28,000, and the loss to labor in wages is not less than $3,000,000.

After thirteen months of self-enforced idleness, waste and starvation, the strikers are about to return to work at substantially the same wages offered and refused when the strike began.

The lesson needs no waste of space to suggest its application. It is the old, old story; the madness, the waste, the starvation, the demoralization of strikes, all of which fall upon labor in the end.

Honest arbitration would have saved millions to both employers and employed, but labor agitators were heeded and labor paid the fearful penalty.

THE following article which was written up for this paper by a gentleman who takes an active part in the prohibition campaign, reached us too late last week for insertion, but as the proceedings of the convention are of much interest to many of our readers we give it space in this week's JOURNAL:

"The Centre County Prohibition Convention convened in Bellefonte on Tuesday, June 22nd, with about sixty persons present, including ladies. The convention opened with devotional exercises, after which J. Zeigler was chosen chairman and Geo. W. Ganoe, of Philipsburg, secretary. After reading of the convention call and a few remarks by the chair a committee was selected to nominate eight delegates with their alternates to attend the state convention, to be held at Harrisburg, August 25th and 26th. Committee reported the following names, all of which were duly elected: Delegates—Geo. W. Ganoe, C. Buck, J. Zeigler, S. S. Lyon, G. W. Krumbine, C. W. Rishel, C. Dinges, R. B. Hartman. Alternates, H. K. Luse, John Wolf, W. F. Floray, Jas H. Lobr, A. J. Shivrey, Henry Musser, A. C. Murray, Dr. F. G. Mattern. The following persons constituted the committee on resloutions: C. Buck, A. J. Shivery, Wm. B. Laning, S. S. Lyon, Mrs. J. P. Harris, Mrs. J. C. Weaver and Dr. F. G. Mattern.

Hon. A. A. Barker, of Ebensburg, Pa., was then introduced to the convention and made a stirring ten-minute speech, in which he clearly set forth that the prohibition party is not fighting the old parties—but WHISKEY. After the gentleman's address the convention took a recess until 2.30 o'clock p. m.

The afternoon session opened with prayer, after which reports from the committees were read. It was decided to place a full county ticket in the field and a committee, consisting of J. Zeigler, C. Buck, C. Dinges, Geo. W. Ganoe and S. S. Lyon was elected to make the nominations.

A. J. Shivery, J. B. Graham and John Wolf were elected Senatorial Conferees and Dr. F. G. Mattern, S. S. Lyon and C. Buck, congressional conferees. Hon. A. A. Barker was mentioned as the first choice of the convention for Governor.

A campaign fund of $50. was raised in a few minutes and all indications are that the Prohibitionists of the county will make the coming campaign interesting.

In the evening a mass meeting was held in the rink, addressed by J Zeigler and Hon. Mr. Barker, the audience being very attentive and apparantly much interested. The convention throughout was a success and much credit is due the ladies of the W. C. T. U. for their interest in the movement.

Miscellaneous News.

Manning Much Improved in Health.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Thomas J. Brennan, Secretary Manning's private secretary, says that the report that Secretary Manning has suffered a relapse is incorrect. He left the Secretary yesterday very much improved in health and in good spirits.

The News Express Kills two People.

MILTON, Pa., June 27.—Robert Hillands and wife, of Chillisquaque, 60 and 50 respectively, were instantly killed by the newspaper train at the Mahoning street railroad crossing this morning while on the way to church. Their horse was badly injured and the carriage was broken into splinters.

Fourth of July Excursions via Pennsylvania Railroad.

In pursuance of its usual custom the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets between all principal stations on its owned, operated, and leased lines, on July 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th, good to return until 6th, at greatly reduced rates. By this arrangement the great national holiday may be spent in visiting friends, or in making pleasant excursions to some of the many points of interest located on the company's lines. The intervention of Sunday gives an additional day to those whose time is occupied by business, and this with the liberal limit of the excursion tickets, affords opportunity for the enjoyment of a nice holiday trip.

Saw-Mill Hands Poisoned.

MIFFLINTOWN, Pa., June 27.—Considerable interest and excitement has been created in the western part of Juniata county by the serious poisoning of a lot of men, who were working at a steam saw-mill in the vicinity of Waterloo. The men after drinking from a brook of fresh mountain water, took suddenly ill and the symptoms strongly indicated poison. The facts of the case are still shrouded in mystery, but enough has been learned to warrant the statement that the poison was placed in the stream some distance above the mill by a party who are jealous and anxious for the places now occupied by the present workmen. The circumstances are being thoroughly investigated, and it is probable the case will be settled before a court of justice.

Indications of An Independent Movement.

A special to the New York Sun credits Mr. George E. Mapes with the managing oar in a scheme to organize an anti-Quay and anti-Beaver movement in Pennsylvania. It says: 'The scheme is being fathered by George Shiras, Wharton Barker, George E. Mapes, of Philadelphia; John Stewart, ex-Independent candidate for Governor, the Hon. John Cessna, State Senator Lew Emery, Jr., candidate for Congress from the Sixteenth district, and State Senator Lee, of Venango, although there is some doubt about the latter.' Mr. Mapes proposes to hold a conference of Independents in Pittsburg within the next thirty days to discuss the best means to down State Treasurer Quay, Chairman Tom Cooper, Chris L. Magee and the other Stalwarts. This will doubtless take the shape of an indorsement of Charley Wolfe's candidacy on the Prohibition ticket for Governor. It also means a possible attempt to secure Democratic aid in the same direction.

About the Ore Property and New Furnace at Bellefonte.

This morning, among the arrivals at the Bush House, were several members of the syndicate who have purchased Valentines' and Thomas' ore properties and will erect a new furnace. They were Samuel Dickson, of Philadelphia; Hon. C. A. Mayer, of Lock Haven; James P. Witherow, of Pittsburg; and Mr. Stewart, of the banking house of B. K. Jamison & Co., Philadelphia. Jas. P. Witherow is a practical gentleman and will superintend the erection of the furnace. As their visit here today is to select the site for the furnace, the indications are that before many days the new structure will be commenced.—Saturday's Daily News.

Loss of Seven Philadelphia Vessels and Eighty-Four Lives during the last Six Months.

The first six months of the present year has witnessed many disasters to Philadelphia shipping, and old Captains say they do not recollect when so many vessels or so many lives have been lost within so short a period. The storms during the winter months were unusually severe, and in view of the number of wrecks which occurred it is remarkable that no more lives were lost. In many cases there were heroic rescues made. So far as is known seven vessels, either owned in Philadelphia or sailing from this port, have gone to the bottom during this period, carrying down with them eighty-four precious lives. The property lost will amount to fully $500,000, much of which was not insured. The list includes one passenger steamship, one large clipper ship, one stanch bark and four schooners.

The Coal Oil Can Again,

READING, Pa., June 27.—The family of Tudor Tussell, living near this city, met with a terrible accident yesterday morning. Mrs. Russell and three children were at home at the time. When Mrs. Russell was making the fire her wood did not burn readily. Her husband was up stairs in bed very ill. The wife used coal oil to hurry the fire when the can exploded. Instantly the burning oil spread over herself and the children. The room was at once in a blaze, and the weak unto death husband groped his way down through the blinding smoke. He saw his wife lying on the floor burning up. She was writhing in agony, and their children were also in flames. The husband fainted at the horrible sight. Neighbors rushed in and extinguished the flames. The wife died, and the children cannot live. They are horribly burned.

Fourth of July at Gettysburg. A Grand Demonstration on the Field.

The encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and the reunion of the Third Army Corps at Gettysburg will appropriately occur on the anniversary of the great battle which was waged on the historic ground twenty-three years ago. The Pennsylvania Department of the Grand Army of the Republic encamps on the field from July 21 to 7th, and on the 21 and 31 the reunion of the Third Army Corps will be held. During the entire week ceremonies of the most interesting character will be held every day, which will be participated in by the veterans of the fight. It is expected that from five to seven thousand members of the Grand Army of the Republic will be present, including many officers who were engaged in the fight. Generals Sickles, Fitzhugh Lee, and Longstreet have accepted invitations to be present and to speak. The meeting will undoubtedly be one of the most imposing demonstrations of modern times, and will be worthy of the presence of every American citizen. To those who desire to get all the points of the battle no better opportunity will ever present itself, for in addition to the number of soldiers who were engaged in the fight there will be a large number of experienced guides who will point out to visitors every spot of interest and give all the information possible as to the events of the memorable days of the battle. For the benefit of the large number of visitors who will be drawn to Gettysburg the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all principal stations on its lines east of Pittsburg and Erie on June 30th, July 1st, 2, 3, 4th, and 5th, good to return until the 10th inclusive, at one fare for the round trip.

LOCAL NEWS.

—Now for the 4th.

—This ends the first half of '86.

—Help the town by patronizing home trade.

—This week started in with splendid hay weather.

—First-class job work done at the JOURNAL office.

—Strangers by the score in town the last couple weeks.

—Town was exceptionally lively last Saturday evening.

—Send the JOURNAL to a friend after you have read it.

—The farmers are busy making hay while the sun shines.

—Most of the grass is cut and the hay crop is splendid.

—Bellefonte was visited by Hurlburt & Hunting's circus last Tuesday.

—A lot of Fourth of July Flags, from one cent up, at the Journal Store.

—Not very far off—a weddi g. Just as soon as they are married we will tell you.

—The band has ordered the goods for their flannel shirts and will soon appear in new dress.

—The ladies baking cakes for the Coburn festival should have them ready by this evening.

—Mr. F. Dieffenderfer and sister, of Sunbury, are visiting at Squire Reifsnyder's at present.

—Mrs. Hettie Catherman, of Centre Hall, the daughter of Danl. Ulrich, Sr., was in town visiting.

—Miss Jennie Luckenbach, of Bellefonte, is in town at present, the guest of her friend, Lydia Gutelius.

—Straw Hats, for the Harvest field, or for Sunday wear, a large selection at Kauffman's on Main street.

—For colds, croup, asthma, bronchitis and sore throat, use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and get the genuine.

—The finest lot of Stamped Linen Goods for embroidery in the valley can be found in the Journal Store.

—There will be regular services in the U. B. church of this place next Sunday evening by the pastor.

—The Albright brothers seem to be full of work in their carriage and blacksmith shop on Main street.

—In some parts of Illinois the chinch bugs are destroying the corn, field after field being infested by the pests.

—Next Sunday forenoon there will be regular services in the Lutheran church of this place by the pastor.

—French Tissue Paper for making artificial flowers, ready-made flowers and material, at the Journal Store.

—It often seemed to us that Millheim ought to have a money order post office. Smaller towns than this have them.

—You will find at our store a proper assortment of proper goods at proper prices. Come. D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—When one sees the impure fats that are sometimes used in soap-making he is inclined to doubt the cleansing ... containing quantities of the soap. Dreydoppel's Borax Soap is made from the purest refined tallow, and is guaranteed pure and healthful.

—Rev. Herlacher, of Ohio, preached in the Ev. church on Tuesday evening, to raise funds for the Wis. cyclone sufferers.

—SUBSCRIBE for the JOURNAL.

—GREENS, all kinds just received at Kauffman's store.

—And don't you forget it that J. W. Lose's Main street grocery is booming. Reason—Best goods for the least money.

—Miss Maggie Alexander, of Centre Hall, is at present here visiting her brothers, A. R., W.K. and Christ Alexander.

—Dr. J. F. Harter and family expect to be off to Pine Grove and other places in the upper part of the valley next week.

—Editor Fiedler, of the Gazette, Bellefonte, called on us last Saturday. He was on his way to his parental home in Madisonburg.

—A lot of Library Lamps on hand, tasty styles, which we wish to sell at reasonable prices.

D. S. KAUFFMAN & Co.

—Should you be in town on the 3rd, do not forget to call at our office and drop some cash into our needy coffers, on subscription accounts.

—A complete line of Ledgers, Day Books, Secretary's Books and all kinds of Memoranda and Time Books, at the Journal Store on Penn street.

—A fine Silk Plush Album is not only an ornament but an object of real interest in the family. The Journal Store has them in great variety.

—Our job office run out a lot of blanks and envelopes for the G. A. R. post this week and the veterans will soon be in first class business trim.

—Mrs. Eckley, of near Bellefonte, was at home over Sunday, the guest of her father, David Ulrich, and the visitor of her numerous relations in town.

—The Great Zingari Toothache Drops, for toothache and neuralgia, have no equal. Only costs 15 cents at any drug store. Warranted. Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

—The ladies of the M. E. Mite Society of this place purpose holding a festival on the afternoon and evening of July 3d, in the skating rink on Penn street.

—During Mrs. D. A. Musser's absence in the West, her daughter, Mrs. A. Walter, presides over the domestic affairs of the Musser homestead in Strasburg.

—Lodie, the little daughter of W. S. Musser, was confined to the house for the past few weeks, by the measles. She is very much better now and will soon be out again.

—John Kerstetter's house on Penn street has received it's last coat of plaster by Messrs. Burd, the Aaronsburg plasterers, and John will soon be able to say "pass 'round in front."

—Baxter's Mandrake Bitters cure indigestion, heart burn, costiveness and all malarial diseases. Twenty-five cts. per bottle. Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co, Millheim.

—Minnie, a little daughter of Wm. M. Hartman, fell into the race last Thursday and barely escaped being drowned. The frightened mother came to her assistance not a minute too soon.

—There have been quite a number of good-sized catches this season, but Cleveland made the biggest catch of all, when he caught on to "Frankie." They say she is a regular jewel of a woman.

—If you are troubled with a "hacking cough," Down's Elixir will give you relief at once. Warranted as recommended or money refunded. Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co., Millheim.

—That "pointer" in last week's Centre Democrat made it necessary for us to go the "devil" of the Journal office, and tell him to mind his business and make it a "point" to reduce the $100 to $1.00.

—An extensive fire which occurred at Philipsburg on Monday night and which started in the large skating rink totally consumed that building, the old Passmore house and ex-Sheriff Munson's residence.

—Samuel Frank, executor, advertises the sale of the real estate of Michael Frank, dec'd, late of Penn township, to take place on the premises in Haines township, about 3 miles east of Aaronsburg, August 12th. See bills.

—Our skilled builder and boss carpenter, John Kerstetter, has his crew of men at work on the inside woodwork and the manufacture of the counters for J. W. Stover's new and handsome storeroom on Main street.

—Simmons Liver Regulator is simple and harmless, and yet has proven itself a sovereign remedy for dyspepsia, costiveness, sick headache, bilious colic, sour stomach, diarrhoea, biliousness and other like evils of a disordered liver and stomach.

—Minehost Musser, of the Musser house, gave his boarders and friends a delightful ride towards Rebersburg last Sunday evening. A number of the party were taken in the handsome cab and the rest traveled in buggies. A very pleasant time was had.

—A misstep will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment at hand, will not prevent the misstep, but used immediately it will save being a cripple. Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co., Millheim.

—A large lot of Envelopes of every grade and price, as well as Fine Writing Papers, in sheets and tablet form, at the Journal Store on Penn street.

MUSICAL COLLEGE.—The 30th Session of Six Weeks, opens Monday evening, July 26th, 1886, for the Teaching and Training of Young Ladies in Vocal and Instrumental Music.

Address, F. C. MOYER, Musical Director, Freeburgh, Pa. 24-4t

—"My physicians said I could not live. My liver out of order, frequently vomited greenish mucous, skin yellow, small dry humors on face, stomach would not retain food. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me." Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, N.Y.

HELP THOSE WOMEN!—Don't forget to spend some of your loose change at the festival of the Ladies' Mite Society of the M. E. church next Saturday afternoon and evening. These women are trying to raise money for a good cause and should be encouraged. Hope to see you there.

—Landlord Rook, of the National Hotel, was to Philipsburg, his former home, for several days, to attend a public sale of horses and carriages of one of the liveries at that place. He returned with a complete and splendid turn-out, comprising a fine horse, and new buggy and harness.

COMING HOME.—Miss Mary Mauck is expected home from Danville next week. Miss Kate Bartholemew, from the Deaf & Dumb Institute, Philadelphia, arrives this week to spend the summer vacation with her parents in this place. David Miller is also expecting one of his son's from the West this week.

—A number of our younger men spend their evenings on D. A. Musser's meadow this while past playing 'scrub' game of base ball. By perseverance and practice they could get up a good nine as there is certainly good material among them for base ballists. Keep on boys and after a while form into a regular club.

—Among our callers on Monday were Mrs. Ellen Shirk, of Laurelton, who was spending several days in this neighborhood visiting relatives, Mr. Benj. Orndorf, of Woodward, who had just returned from a short trip to Union county, and Mr. Samuel Frank, of Rebersburg. All of them were welcome visitors to our sanctum.

A WORD OF ENCOURAGEMENT.—That business in general is dull during hay making and harvest is expected by all, but nevertheless we carry a full stock of everything in the line of general merchandise and are able to accommodate those who wish to buy the most and best goods for the least money.

D. S. Kauffman & Co.

GOOD FOR MALARIA.—E. James, Thompsontown, Pa., writes:

'J. A. McDonald,

DEAR SIR.—Send me two dozen boxes of your Liver Pills at once. Some of our people say they have cured them of chills and fever and they do not want to be without them.'

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO., Philadelphia Agents.

—The other day Wm. Ulrich passed through town from Whitmer's saw mill, Sugar Valley, with the finest load of lumber ever brought to Coburn. It consisted of three pieces, each 45 feet long, 10 inches thick and 20 inches wide, white pine timber with not a single knot in it and weighing in the neighborhood of four tons.

—Last week's Centre Hall Reporter contains the marriage notice of Miss Rose Kreamer, of Millheim, and Chas. Kreamer, of Aaronsburg. We had heard a report of the event, but did not receive official notice from the minister, and guess work will not do in such a case. This accounts for our omitting the item. All the same we offer our congratulations.

—Coburn expects to have a grand time to-morrow and Saturday evening, when the Lutherans will hold their ice cream festival. The Millheim band will be there to-morrow evening to enliven the opening of the festival with some choice music. This being the first occasion of that kind at Coburn a large attendance of the people of the surrounding country may be looked for.

NOTICE.—A Select School will be opened at Aaronsburg on Monday, July 26th, 1886, to continue eight weeks. All persons desiring to attend will please hand their names to M. M. Musser, of Aaronsburg. Special attention will be given to such as are preparing for College or for teaching in the Public Schools. Terms to suit the times. For further information address the teacher,

M. O. NOLL,
23-6t Lewisburg, Pa.

—As it is customary in the JOURNAL office to take a week's rest over the Fourth of July, there will be no paper issued next week and we ask the kind indulgence of our readers until the next issue, July 15th. We may, however, during the vacation be found at our post to receive orders for job work or advertising, or money on subscription accounts. We wish our readers a pleasant Fourth.

—Mr. Wm. B. Mingle, of Centre Hall, whose announcement as a candidate for prothonotary appears in another column, called on us last Friday morning, and gave us the benefit of a delightful hours' chat. Bei ga staunch Democrat and a gentleman in every way fitted for the office he holds at present and seeks to get in the future, his chances for the nomination are as good as any.

ANOTHER FESTIVAL.—The Lutheran Ladies' Mite Society of Coburn will hold an Ice Cream Festival at that place on Friday evening, July 2nd, and Saturday afternoon and evening, July 3rd.

NOTICE TO FARMERS.—Several Extra Kind of Seed Wheat for sale. For price and particulars inquire of J. H. MUSSER, Aaronsburg, Pa. 3t

—This town has three newsboys who every Saturday evening dispose of about 100 copies, each handling a different paper. Wallace Musser sells the Harrisburg Telegram, Fred. Brumgart the Williamsport Grit and the Breakfast Table, and Harry Frank the Harrisburg Patriot. The boys push the sale of these papers with considerable vim, and give our good people ample opportunity to keep well posted on the topics of the day.

—The Reformed Ladies' Mite Society of Aaronsburg will hold an ice cream festival on Saturday afternoon and evening, July 10th, 1886, either in the open air on Main street or in the old church, depending on the condition of the weather. All who feel disposed to encourage the ladies in a good cause and desire a respite from the heavy labors of the season to enjoy a social afternoon and evening, are cordially invited.

—There is no doubt that Millheim will celebrate the Fourth of July in some shape next Saturday. Our people have not missed doing so for several years and though no definite programme has been arranged, there will at least be some band music, fireworks and a display of national colors. Last but not least the ladies of the M. E. Mite Society will have for sale at the rink on Penn street the best ice cream lemonade and cakes.

SCHOOL NOTICE.—Mr. J. F. Keller, of Adamsburg, Pa., has concluded to teach a nine weeks' term of summer school in the Penn street school house, Millheim, commencing July 19th, provided a sufficient number of pupils can be secured. In order to do justice to large and small scholars he will grade the school and for that purpose employ an assistant teacher. Further information can be had from the borough school directors.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The last quarterly meeting of Millheim circuit for the conference year will be held in the U. B. church of this place, July 10th and 11th. Business session Saturday afternoon at half-past two o'clock. There will be preaching on Saturday evening and on Sunday morning and evening. Communion services on Sunday forenoon. Rev. Z. A. Climer, P. E. of the district will be present to conduct the services. All are cordially invited to attend. C. W. WASSON, Pastor.

LAY THEM AWAY.—We mean the horrible, nauseous worm-seed compounds called worm syrups and vermifuges; many of them as worthless as they are obnoxious. They have out-lived their usefulness. People do not want them since McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders, so easy and pleasant to take, can be had from any dealer Everyone who has tried them say they are the nicest and best vermifuges ever discovered. The children take them and never know a medicine is being administered. Any case of failure to cause explosion where worms exist the money promptly refunded in every instance.

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO., Philadelphia Agents.

Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

—One dose of McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative is guaranteed to contain more alterative properties, more truly remedial power than three doses of any other known alterative or blood purifier. Many other blood remedies are good enough in their way, only that you are compelled to buy a galloon of medicine to get a pint of remedy; the manufacturers having sacrificed strength and usefulness to palatability and profit. McDonald's Blood Purifier is put up in seventy-five cent bottles containing as much as most dollar bottles of other makes. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO., Philadelphia Agents.

Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

—Says last week's Sunbury Democrat: Friday morning a package passed through the Adams express office, this place, from Rochester, N. Y., for President Cleveland. The railroad men along the route made free use of their lead pencils on the package, in accepting the opportunity to express themselves to the President in the line of congratulation on his marriage. Among them were the following: 'Shake, old boy!' 'What put so much good sense and taste into your head?' 'Bully boy, you are, Grover.' 'Kind greeting to Frankie.' 'You are a man among us, Grover.' 'Don't forget that Frankie is very young. Be a father to her, Grover.'

—According to Tuesday's Harrisburg Patriot, Lock Haven is likely to get a branch of the B. C., C. & S. W. Railroad. The item says that Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt and party will pass over the Beech Creek, Clearfield and Southwestern Railroad this [Tuesday] morning in a special car, for the purpose of reorganizing the road at Clearfield, returning the same evening. Ex-Senator Peale, the Solicitor of the company, will accompany the party. Efforts will be made to have the road extended to Lock Haven. A branch into that city would make the Beech Creek a competing road in every sense of the word and would give Lock Haven railroad facilities equal to the best.

TO OUR CORRESPONDENTS.—Do not send in communications next week as there will be no JOURNAL published. But gather up the news all the same and report week after next.

Neighboring News.

SMITH TOWN.

Nothing but hay at present.

Mrs. B. O. Deininger was the guest of Mrs. John Harshbarger last Saturday. Mr. Harshbarger is unable to be out of the house on account of his sore eyes.

Al. Keen bought a very fine colt last week.

One of our farmers mowed his Canada thistles with the reaper. Now feed them to salt.

Mr. Abraham Smith, from Boiling Springs, is in our midst on a few week's visit.

Dr. P. T. Musser, of Aaronsburg, gave a free dinner at Joseph Grossman's last week, in honor of the completion of laying water pipes up to his buildings on the hill. A jolly time was had. The doctor is overjoyed at the accomplishment of his undertaking to run the water up to his farm and wants no more water company in his.

Miss Annie Zeigler, of Millheim, was visiting among us last Sunday.

Miss Lizzie Keen and her sister Ida, were to Mifflinburg on a week's visit, from which they returned last Saturday.

Jeremiah Kern claims to have rye straw that measures 7 feet and 10 inches. Hard to beat.

One of our young ladies had an ice cream party, but Jumbo's "trunk" was too short to get there, so he can't give the particulars. Hope we won't be forgotten the next time.

A white dress belonging to Miss Keen was hung on the washline to dry, when the cows got a hold of it and chewed it all up. Mary took a good cry over it and then, like a sensible girl, went to Millheim and bought a new one.

We are glad to see that the JOURNAL has such a lively set of correspondents and feel proud to be one of them. It keeps its readers well informed of all the news in our sister towns.

Do not forget the picnic! JUMBO.

AARONSBURG.

Borough.

Poor house debt.

The pavement excitement is dead.

Mrs. John G. Kurtz, of Milton, Pa., is here visiting her sick mother, Mrs. Ettinger.

Chas. Musser and John Foster, of Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., are home on a three months' vacation.

Rev. Dornblaser, after a few days' absence, returned to town on the 24th ult. He filled Rev. Deitzler's pulpit at this place last Sabbath.

Emanuel Cronmiller received an ugly gash on the top of his head from a falling piece of lumber several days subsequent to the raising of Mr. Mensh's barn. He was assisting in laying the second floor of that building.

A few ladies of the Coburn Lutheran congregation canvassed this town one day last week, soliciting help for their festival, which they intend holding this week.

Office-seekers are plenty at present and how accommodating and obliging they are, when passing you on the public highway, when at other and more common occasions they are not "built that way." How inconsistent some of these fellows are.

In a recent letter to their friends here, Dr. E. J. Deshler and wife, now visiting their son, Dr. J. J. Deshler, in Iowa, say they are more than pleased with their visit to the West, but are about turning their faces Pennsylvania-ward. We expect them home in a few days. ANOTHER.

MADISONBURG.

The farmers are busy making hay, of which there will be a good crop.

Benj. Royer sold three horses (the Ocker team) to Mr. Ulrich of Penn's Valley for $200 last week and the old mare to Mr. Guistwite, of Rebersburg. He then went to Sugarvalley and purchased two horses to fill the places of those he sold.

Jacob Deitrich is working on the saw mill near Rebersburg.

Felix Lee and Miss Annie Ruble, of Tusseyville, were the guests of Dr. Lee over Sunday.

Mr. Jacob Snook and family, of Millheim, were at L. B. Stover's on Sunday, presumably for a square meal.

Daniel Schlegle has returned from Clearfield, where he had been plastering. STILL ANOTHER.

COBURN.

Business in this village has been rather dull for some time, but seems to be picking up some. The farmers will not sell their wheat at the present low price and consequently that branch of business is at a standstill. But we are having quite a boom in the building line and the buildings being put up are all good, neat and substantial.

There is considerable talk about the festival to be held here this week, as it will be something new for this place. Being for a good cause it should be well patronized and made a success.

We noticed B. O. Deininger and several others from Millheim taking part in the Sunday school exercises last Sabbath afternoon. Glad to see them here.

A mule belonging to one of the prop timber men of Mr. Barlow fell dead in the road above Coburn one day last week.

Mrs. Wm. H Kremer and daughter took in the old home, Mifflinburg, one day last week.

Cap. Van Valin says the still house is moving right along.

Squire Gettig contemplates a trip to Gettysburg over the 4th, and Andy Campbell intends doing up Shamokin. As far as we now know the rest of our citizens will be found at home.

We noticed the editor in our village the other day, but he did not call to see us, or if he did we were not at home. How is it? VALE.

[The fact is we had but a short hour to stay, and your lively merchant, R. F. Vonada, monopolized nearly all of that time. So we didn't get there.—Ed]

Rebersburg and Vicinity.

Croquet playing is the popular pastime in our town.

Haymaking time is here and our farmers are very busy. The crop is good.

Rev. Henry Weber, son of our townsman, Joseph Weber, is at present here visiting his father and many friends.

One day last week Wes. Snyder ordered a Champion Binder and Mower through our reaper agent, H. G. Royer. Wes. wants to be up to times.

Wm. Kreamer has done considerable repairing on the outbuildings of the farm he resides on, which greatly adds to the conveniences of his home.

An infant and only child of Robert Diehl died on last Friday and was buried on Sunday afternoon in the Evangelical cemetery.

Henry Moyer and Cook Loose have purchased a lot of ground of Daniel Kreamer, situate back of the hotel, where they have Thomas Zeigler, the experienced brickmaker, and a full set of hands at work turning out a superior quality of brick.

Mr. Howard Klepper and family, of Booneville, spent last Saturday and Sunday at Wm. Kreamer's.

John Harter swapped off his mules to Mr. Wolfart. John now owns the finest young horse in the valley.

A party from Nippenose were here with a steam well-boring machine and sunk a well for Jerome Meyer, striking water at the depth of seventy feet. Another one was sunk for Jno. Breon, with the same depth and both have now an abundant supply of water.

Last Sunday Rev. Basom, (Evang.) treated the Wolf's S. school with cards which greatly pleased the small scholars.

Rev. Lenard administered the Lord's Supper last Sunday in the Lutheran church and the attendance was large.

Dan. Royer is off to Nittany to buy a horse. Something Dan needs very bad.

Philip Hubler, our horse dealer, the other day bought a horse and was beat again. This is the second time that he returns his purchase to its owner. What's wrong, Philip?

It is with regret that we inform your readers of the death of Mr. Daniel Musser, who formerly resided at the east end of this valley, but who left for California this spring. He died on his way from California to Kansas where he intended to buy some land.

One day last week, while Jos. Spangler was cultivating corn his horses took fright and ran away, making a complete wreck of the cultiyator.

Last Friday C. Beck killed seven skunks. Charley is ahead again.

SQUIBOB.

IT WENT ROUND AMONG THE NEIGHBORS.—Mr. Levi Stahl, merchant and postmaster at Fostoria, Pa., writes:

'Mr. J. A. McDonald, Reedsville, Pa.

DEAR SIR:—Some time ago I had a severe attack of chronic diarrhoea. Could obtain no relief. A friend gave me a part of a bottle of your Cutis' Carmelite Cordial, and a few doses entirely cured me. The balance of the bottle went around among the neighbors. Since then I have written to New York and Philadelphia for the medicine but could not procure it. I traced up the bottle we had and found it was purchased of Mr. Jacob Cowan, merchant in Altoona, and from him obtained your address. Please forward me one dozen bottles by express at once, as I do not wish to be without it in my family and wish to sell it in my store.'

Single bottle Curtis' Carmelite Cordial guaranteed to cure any case of cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, cramps, pains and all iritation of the bowels incident to change of climate, diet and water.

Hand Organs.

Hand-organs, writes a correspondent of the Troy Times, are a modern infliction, and have introduced the monkey, which is a feature formerly unknown in mendicant minstrelsy. The monkey, indeed, is so amusing that one almost forgets the organ-grinding while watching his antics. These animals are worth from $10 to $30, according to their training, and when an Italian owns his organ and monkey he is really well-to-do in the world.

The best hand-organs cost from $100 to $150, but which so commonly torment the public rarely cost more than $40. The best are the flute organs, and they play nearly a dozen tunes, which add to their capacity. The principal factory is in Chatham street, this locality being so near the Italian quarter (Baxter street) that it is very favorable to trade. There are some Italians who own a number of organs, which they rent by the season at a large profit and with but little loss. The grinder having finished his summer itinerancy, of course comes back for winter quarters, and thus pays his rent. Both organ-grinders and boy fidlers have their regular routes, which they repeat year after year, and there seems to be some general arrangement which prevents interference. It is said that more than 300 of these peripatetic minstrels have gone from New York this seasoni and yet it will be rare if two men visit the same village. When cold weather sets in the grinders return to Baxter street, where there pack together—sometimes nearly a dozen in a small room, with neither fire nor lights. The Italian can sustain life under extreme privations, and he seems content to sleep on the floor and live on what he can pick up.

A Struggle for Principle.

A rainy day had housed us up in the cabin of a Tennessean, and about 9 o'clock in the morning a man who was addressed by our host as Uncle Billy came riding up through the steady pour on a mule. The animal was placed in the stable, and as the two entered the house our host observed:

'Well, Uncle Billy, how'll you trade mules?'

'Oh, 'bout $3 tew boot,' was the answer.

They returned to the stables and talked until noon. Then we had dinner, and they talked until 4 o'clock. The rain let up a bit then and we went out to see a cave, leaving them talking mule. We returned at 6 and they were still at it. We had supper, and the interrupted conversation was resumed and kept up until 9 o'clock. We went off to bed with Uncle Billy saying:

'Tell ye what I'll dew. I'll trade fur $3 tew boot.'

It thundered about midnight, and I woke up and heard that mule talk still going. At 6 o'clock I got up. Uncle Billy was just riding away.

'Well, how did you come out?' I asked of our host.

'Beat him down to $2 and three bits,' he replied.

'So you saved two shillings?'

'Exactly, though I wasn't working for that. It was the principle of the thing which I looked at.'—Detroit Free Press.

To Regulate

THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury or any injurious substance, but is purely vegetable.

It will Cure all Diseases caused by Derangement of the Liver, Kidneys and Stomach.

If your Liver is out of order, then your whole system is deranged. The blood is impure, the breath offensive; you have headache, feel languid, dispirited and nervous. To prevent a more serious condition, take at once Simmons

LIVER REGULATOR. If you lead a sedentary life, or suffer with Kidney Affections, avoid stimulants and take Simmons Liver Regulator. Sure to relieve.

If you have eaten anything hard of digestion, or feel heavy after meals or sleepless at night, take a dose and you will feel relieved and sleep pleasantly.

If you are a miserable sufferer with Constipation, Dyspepsia and Biliousness, seek relief at once in Simmons Liver Regulator. It does not require continual dosing, and costs but a trifle. It will cure you.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter, bad taste in your mouth,

TAKE Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the Bilious Stomach, sweetens the Breath, and cleanses the Furred Tongue. Children often need some safe Cathartic and Tonic to avert impending sickness. Simmons Liver Regulator will relieve Colic, Headache, Sick Stomach, Indigestion, Dysentery, and the Complaints incident to Childhood.

At any time you feel your system needs cleansing, toning, regulating without violent purging, or stimulating without intoxicating, take

Simmons Liver Regulator.

QUAKER

Is the Best

TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty; as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its pleasancy, aroma, taste, strength and purenest. This inventor has by years of study of the sacred virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who in making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than he very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
